The Library partners with parents to help children Grow Up Reading™

Parents are a child's first teachers. Help your child develop essential early literacy skills and build a strong foundation for future reading success with these six powerful practices.

Grow Up Reading™ Tips for May: Talking

- Children between the ages of 2 years and 5 years old are just starting to understand emotions, such as fear, anger, frustration and disappointment. Labeling those feelings for your child is a great part of learning communication skills and helps children to identify and understand emotions.
- Letting the children in your life know that they are loved for who they are now and who they will become helps create a trusting relationship. Build your relationship by spending dedicated time with your child doing something they choose, paying attention to their likes and interests. During these moments, put aside other distractions, including household chores and electronic devices. It can be tempting (and sometimes necessary) to multitask, but it is also important to show your child that you are focused on them.
- Be gentle but firm. If you've made up your mind about something, stick to it. Make sure you and your partner agree on the issue and stay united in your decision. Your kids may not like the choice at the time, but they will know it stands firm and won't bother persisting with either of you or playing one parent against the other. Try to make your requests sound important, speaking as though you mean it; a wishy-washy tone gives kids the impression you aren't concerned about whether they'll follow your directions.

Five Green and Speckled Frogs

Five little speckled frogs sat on a speckled log
Eating some most delicious grubs (yum, yum!)
One jumped into the pool, where it was nice and cool
Now there are four green speckled frogs

Four little speckled frogs sat on a speckled log
Eating some most delicious grubs (yum, yum!)
One jumped into the pool, where it was nice and cool
Now there are three green speckled frogs

Now there are no green speckled frogs

I'm a Little Ladybug

(sung to "I'm a Little Teapot")

I'm a little ladybug,
Red and black,
With the tiniest spots
All over my back.
I fly all round the garden,
And land upon a rose,
Then the grass, and
Then your nose!
